The Mystery of the Mona Lisa: France Elizabeth Singer Hunt

In The Mystery of the Mona Lisa, Jack is sent to the Louvre Museum in Paris to track down the theft of the world's most beloved painting. He must match wits with a seemingly invisible mastermind in order to stop Leonardo's masterpiece from slipping into the criminal underground forever. Can Jack's Hypo-Disk overpower a glove that shoots laser beams from its fingertips? Jack's adventures in the city of light demonstrate once again that when it comes to outsmarting the baddies, Jack is the go-to agent with endless tricks up his sleeve."

I really liked this book. It's very James Bondish, but appropriate for the younger kids. If a child wants to read an action/suspense book, this is one to recommend. I'd recommend it to students in 3rd/4th grade, but I've had a student in 6th grade who read all of the books, so who knows!

I like the beginning when Jack goes into the map ?

I think our interest may be waning with this series (reading with my second grade son). I'd really like to get into saving Max, if he needs saving. There was barely any mention of it. An overarching mystery could really pull this series together.

Pretty good, except I'm not sure that the French pronunciations given in the book are accurate.

Same lines as before - secret mission, seriously cool (and unrealistically convenient) gadgets, traveling to a new place.

This one had a bit more to it - not so straight forward, but did end with the capture of a disgusting villain. It also had a bit more violence and malevolence than previously seen.

I read this early chapter book to my 5 and 7 year old. Lots of great visuals to keep their attention: flip book animation on the bottom of each page, illustrations, and lists of gadgets with pictures. I think the way this book is set up is perfect for reluctant boy readers. The mysteries are not complicated and 9 year old Jack's gadgets keep him out of serious trouble.

Your life will be ruined if you do not read, "Jack Stalwart -The Mystery of the Mona Lisa." Elizabeth Singer Hunt is the author of this book. I thought this book was action packed. Jack is a secret agent of the spy club. At 7:50 p.m. Jack gets a call. He goes on a top secret mission. Read this book to see if he will complete the mission. My favorite part was when Jack was chasing the thief. This book was fun to read. I would give this book a five star rating. I would recommend this book to everyone!

Vonnegut says

Same as the last one.
