When all new threats are dealt with, old enemies emerge from the shadows.

Dean Parker has brought his wife home, and he's looking forward to relaxing and having a future with his family on New Spero. The Iskios vortex is gone, vanquished by the Hero of Earth, but unforeseen enemies linger in the universe.

The Bhlat send a warning to the humans, one that suggests the Kraski may not all be dead. All signs point to Lom of Pleva, a wealthy and very dangerous enemy to have.

Dean must unite with the Bhlat to fight against a common adversary, but when push comes to shove, can he trust them?

Join Dean and the others as they seek to save themselves from the race of beings that beamed them off Earth years ago, setting everything in motion.

Who do you turn to when everyone is trying to kill you?

Rich Costanzo says

Captivating!!

The series with Dean Parker captured me from the first book of the series and has been a thrilling story right to the end of book number 6. I must read if you are looking to be moved from the present to the future and back again.

I'm so glad to learn there will be one more book in this series. I've just finished the first six books in this fantastic series and feel like the main characters are old friends. The author very skillfully enables you to become comfortable with a number of alien species and we learn that many attributes, styles, and behaviors we presume are human are actually common across many different alien cultures. They may look very different having different body designs but they all seem to value family and friends and have home styles that encourage entertaining.

I personally dislike reviews that are "HS Book Report" type summaries. These summaries are provided by all authors and are better than any reviewer could do. The subject matter of this book and series address an alien invasion of earth and how a group of people has been prepared to address this. They manage to save most of the human population and relocate to an earth-like distant planet. There are a number of alien species that help and hinder these relocation efforts and the series chronicles the many issues that evolve from this. The book and series are filled with action, plot twists, betrayals, narrow escapes, loyal relationships, and unusual alliances. Anyone reading this will have all the needs and desires they look for in not just a Sci-Fi story but an action-adventure love story as well.

Keeponkeepenon

The rating goes with the rest of his books. Sad we have to wait 20 years
For the rest hope not

Debra Chiaro saysWell done!

Totally enjoyed this book. A wonderful ending awaits the reader. It was every thing I expected and more. Thanx and high praise to Mr. Hystad for this wonderful series.

Donald M Stout saysAn interesting read.

Following the entire series, it was thick with Plots and sub-plots. Sometimes the names of alien races would sometimes be hard to follow but overall a very good read. Looking forward to his next book.

Ralph says

The Heroes of Earth make some new friends and face some old enemies. I thought this would be the conclusion of this series but, I learned that #7 will be out round March of 2019.

Denis Morrison saysReady for the next #7

This was some reading that I couldn't put down. It was well written and kept my interest through all six books. A rare feat for me.

Chris says

Gotta love Dean and his motley crew!

Louise Robbins saysGreat end

Really enjoyed the survivors books. When I first read the blurb about a mysterious necklace and alien invasion of Earth I thought "Really?!" and had it low down on my maybe list. Then I ran out of books and was onto my maybe list and I am really glad it was there because there were three excellent series waiting for me there!

I have really enjoyed following Dean on his massive adventure across the universe. The books have been exciting to read and the plots clear but full, I'm just sorry the story is over!

Looking forward to Nathan's new Residence series!

True Sci-fi

Clean sci-fi with such a varied cast of characters. Fight for survival continues, and the adventures of new worlds keep the story moving via time travel and portals. The Survivor series is an enjoyable trip into escape, space, new homes and aliens. Need more.

A Fine Ending

If you have become as enthralled in this series as I have ,you will know what I mean. Dean With the help of this friends and a few that aren't. Manage to finally put and end to all the pain and death around them in a unique fashion.

Flynn says

Dean, Mary, Slate and Suma are successfully rescued from Sterona, in return for Magnus to be a Keppe pilot on an exploratory vessel for a few years with his family. Dean returns knowing that the Kraski are still alive under the power and wealth of Lom from Pevla. There is a mole that allows the Kraski into the New Spero atmosphere where they attack Dean and his team on a tour in Terran 13. They escape with the last living Theo, who is very special to Dean. They setup a trap that allows Dean to send Lom of Pevla when he meets with a Kraski on a universal space station to trade for Kalo. They use a portal that was created by the Empress and The Blhat (their deals still holding up) to send him to a desolate ice island thousands of light away from any planets. Lom finds out through the mole Denise (who was a hybrid this whole time) where he was going to be transported. He sends a team to rescue him when they arrive there, only thats not his destination anymore. Kalo is recovered and Dean kills Denise in front of Slate. That just leaves Dean and Lom on the ship that is so far away from anything that it just blows the human mine. Driven out by the robot assistant and rigged with explosives, there is no escape for either man, it was a suicide mission for Dean. He used the trigger, but the explosive doesn't detonate. He transports Lom to 20 years in the future. He finds a communicator hidden and tells his team to set up the portal. He gets back safely.
