Super cute series

Super cute series. Short stories with likeable characters . Each story leaving off in a way to make you want to read the next one to find out what's going to happen.

Allison says

Such a fun series. Well written and it takes place in an ice cream shop. What's not to love?

Eleri Jenkins says

This is book five of the Caesars Creek Mystery series. This is the only one I have read so far and I didn't personally feel like I would have needed to read the other books beforehand as the characters are described well in this book - especially considering the fact that it is such a short book. I enjoyed reading the book which consisted of a few twists and turns before eventually revealing the truth behind what had happened.

A mystery, but no murder

Another, very short, fun story by Constance Barker. I do enjoy this author's writing style and her stories are always entertaining, I just wish they were a lot longer. I am finished with the few books that I got over the months for free, so I am going to miss these characters. I can't pay almost three dollars for a fifty page book. I'll watch for another freebie and maybe someday I'll get lucky and finish the series. There are always surprises, mysteries and romance, but not always a murder.

Ann says

It was a very short book. It was nice to read. A accident happens and every one at the ice cream shoppe tries to figure who did what. Well they all guessed wrong - it was someone they did not suspect at all. It would have been a better book if somewhat longer and not as cramped into one short story.

Laura Reading says

It is now November, shortly before Thanksgiving.

Bruce's new business is doing well and Paige is working for him but still spends time at the Scoop. Brandon and Tara are comfortably dating and even Stormi has settled into an easy going relationship with Officer Greg. They all decide to attend an outdoor concert together.

An auto accident outside The Frozen Scoop introduces Sandra Morgan, stepmother to a friend of 16 year old Sammy. Not the beloved type of stepmother. Sandra does not mind stirring up a hornet's nest for trouble. Sometimes the person behind a mystery is the last person you expect.

To appreciate this series it must be read in order. I recommend reading the box set.
