I received this book for free through Goodreads First Reads, signed by the author. It is a nice children book, easy to read with lovely illustrations. The main character is a bored city cat in search for adventures that receive advise from her new friends. The story is supposed to encourage children to read to leave new adventures everyday staying safe at home.

My Review: This is a wonderful story about a house cat looking for adventure in the city. Thea the cat appears to have everything, from the love of a family to a warm home and plenty of food. But Thea felt she was missing the excitement and the adventure of what was outside the loving home.

One day Thea had the opportunity to explore the city but it wasn't as excited or friendly as she had hoped. But she did learn from Vern the lion at the Zoo that books can take you on an adventure every single day.

This is a well-written story by Artie Knapp a story with a great lesson. I love this book because it teaches children that reading books can take you on an exciting adventure. The illustrations by Sunayana Nair Kanjilal help to tell this story. I highly recommend this book.

FTC Disclosure: I received a review copy of this book from the Author in exchange for a fair and honest review. I was not monetarily compensated for my opinion in any way.
