3d6 Robert Bevan

This is a collection of the third six short stories in the Caverns and Creatures series. It includes the following titles:

House of Madness

Naga Please

Elf Inflicted

The Land Before Tim

A Fistful of Gold Pieces

The Minotard

If you've already purchased all of these books, there is nothing new for you here. If you haven't yet purchased any, you can save a few bucks by buying this collection. If you've only purchased some of these already, you'll have to do some math.

From Reader Review 3d6 for online ebook

Ivo Eersels says

More of the same as the Critical Failures books.

The story with the Elves on Dino-Land got me laughing out loud though. The sexual innuendo is way over the top XD

Theo Karner says

This is a collection of short stories based on the Caverns and Creatures world. In order to enjoy them you should first read at least the first Critical Failures book to understand the context.

Caverns and Creatures

A parody of Dungeons and Dragons. The book follows a group of friends that have been 'sucked/transported' into the Caverns and Creatures world. Each short story is effectively a specific 'quest/dungeon'.

Crude Humour

If you don't like your stories liberally sprinkled with swearing, banter, and crude jokes then this book is not for you.

Audio Version

This book is the type that I think works very well in the audio version. I have listened to all the Caverns and Creatures on Audible and it helps make the story that much better.

Richard Aaroe says

Good read

---

Frankie Saxx says

Entertaining stories, as one expects from Robert Bevan, but what pushes this collection over the top for me is Dave's monologue on the artist's need to be open to criticism in "The Minotard" (the final story in the book).

Mark Wilcox says

These shorts keep getting better and better. I've been reading nothing but Robert Bevan stories for the last 2.5 months and it's amazing.

Sha says

I've held off on reading the main storylines because well- I try to be a politically correct person, and this series is NOT that. It's also not mean-spirited (except to the MCs, who are jerkasses themselves), and the premise is something I am in love with. So.. //makes seesaw motions

Anyway, I plan to read the short story collections, since that's what I'm interested in anyway.

William Siracuse says

Where do I start

Another fun read all around. The party get themselves in a bunch of precarious situations and come out covered in carp in the end. Another fast paced fun read.

Logan Horsford says

I enjoy these books. Lowbrow humor, really dumb people. It's a bit like watching the Three Stooges - but in book form.

The reader is excellent as well.

Personally, I'd like to see a TV show made about this. Have the start the same as the books but instead of going back to the real world so soon, their weekly adventures are things in the 'game land'. That would be nice.

For some reason, TV execs fail to contact me and ask for my thoughts on what they should throw money at. /sad

So yeah - read this book - after you've read the rest in order.

Gina says

C&C shorts are just the best bedtime stories. At the end of the day, there's nothing like curling up with a romp through the ridiculous and nonsensical fantasy world that this ridiculous and nonsensical band of bros find themselves inhabiting. In fact, it's such a part of my nightly wind-down, I wonder; If they ever go home again...how will I sleep? So I vote they stay put.

Maybe I wouldn't walk away from Omelas after all...

I might be a terrible person.

Dionysi Krinas says

Short stories in the Critical Failures series, meant to be read in between the main books I think but are pretty cool out of order also. I have certainly enjoyed their many double entendres that make for some pretty good humour. The last book with the Minotaur was the funniest I think.

David says

This set of short stories had me rounding on the floor laughing so hard that my side hurt.

Montzalee Wittmann says

3d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 3) by Robert Bevan is another collection of stories to hurt yourself on. Seriously, you could strain a muscle laughing.

Bonnie Dale Keck says

Kindle Unlimited, the writer definitely isn't 'right' but he is on ku, a few binge readings were in my future.

d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 1)

Cave of the Kobolds - ZOMBIE ATTACK!!! - Orcs, Bears, and Assholes - Shipfaced - Dungeon Crawl - The Creep on the Borderlands

2d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 2)

Nymph-O-Maniacs- Buzzkill - Cooper's Christmas Carol - Sticky White Mess - Clerical Error - Cornholed

3d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 3)

House of Madness - Naga Please - Elf Inflicted - The Land Before Tim - A Fistful of Gold Pieces - The Minotard

4d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 4)

Djinngle Bells - Genital Harpies - The Unwashed Asses - B.Oar Guests - Wight Trash - Probing the Annis

Caverns and Creatures: Volume I (Books 1 - 4)

Critical Failures (Caverns and Creatures Book 1) Critical Failures II (Caverns and Creatures Book 2) Critical Failures III (Caverns and Creatures Book 3) Critical Failures IV (Caverns and Creatures Book 4)

Space Puppies

Flying Toasters - The DeadPixel Tales {one of collection of writers, seems to be permafree}

Check with amazon to see if the 4 pack is still on sale, etc, I got it for 99, the 4 books listed above titled separately under the set. The smaller collections are listed on top of which this one is the 3rd collection {of 6 stories} with the titles listed for this and the others those since covering the mini collections here. I read the 4 pack, then the collections, in order, not totally sure it would matter with this genre, do suggest personally that the 4 set then the smaller collections be read in order, it did help in most cases.

Writer does list and say if you have the 3d6 {#3 collection} not need to re/read individual stories listed as are the same stories as in the collection. It's why I just got the sets and still my opinion to read in order and in sets which is easier anyway. Last checked the entire 6 set{s} was available on ku, so no need to pull up multiple books and no need to worry about order at all. Again, 3d6 (Caverns and Creatures collection 3) consists of House of Madness - Naga Please - Elf Inflicted - The Land Before Tim - A Fistful of Gold Pieces - The Minotard, and yes am enough of a geek to find those funny and with almost unlimited possibilities for subject matter.

AK says

A fairly easy read with tons of funny moments. The writing is definitely a lot better than some of the earlier works, I can definitely tell Bevan cuts straight to the point. My favorite story has to be the 'The Land Before Tim'. It is a very creative story with a beautiful twist at the end.

Antonio says

Funny, dear God funny. Nothing but a great blast. Comparing this collection of short stories to the actual going story, seems a bit unfair. Short story wise, Robert Bevan really seems to go right into comedy madness. Such a good time. On my way to work, I often listen to audiobooks. There were a few times that I almost had to pull over to the side of the road, gripping my side in laughter. From the narration, to the stories, and the unique characters this just hits comedy gold.

I can't recommend this enough. A great fun time. Get it.
