Some say the world of Meridian is in its last age of existence. The Flood is coming, an event that will wipe the planet clean of corruption. But for humanity, there are more immediate troubles. A war is brewing between the decadent and industrial City of Talos and the rural territory of Nova.

When twelve-year-old Ash Alexander is recruited by the Novan militia, his life—and the life of each member of his family—is thrown into chaos, into a war far deadlier than anyone could have predicted.

While Ash's sanity is tested against the horrors of war; a woman seeks to uncover the mysteries of the School of the Unseen in her lifelong quest to travel the world; a man will do anything to cure his wife of a horrible sickness; and the chief adviser to the ruler of Talos will align himself with grotesque and otherworldly beings in order to achieve his ambitions.

The game for gods has begun.

Mommacat says

With THE GODGAME COLLECTION, everything you've read by Keith Deininger begins to form a cohesive whole. All those puzzle pieces suddenly are dropping into place with the speed of thought. GODGAME enhances the world that Deininger created several books ago. Did you like MARROW'S PIT and SHADOW ANIMALS? You'll love GODGAME! It's written in much the same way and expands on the world.

It's a good place to start even if you haven't read his other books. Like all other series/worldbuilding it's pretty easy to pick up the other books and move on. In fact, this wouldn't be a bad place to start for newbies. This collection gives you the books the way the author meant them to be read --- with the maps and appendices. At one low price, what more can you ask for?

I've read them all and I think you'll like them as much as I did.
