I finished reading Planet of the Nose Pickers by Gordon Korman. Here is the summary, ever since Devin met Stan (an alien that looks like a human). Stan always picks his nose but he is actually working his mini nasal computer. But both boys have still keep Earth the Vacation planet or else Earth will be moved past Pluto and Earth will become a giant frosty Popsicle! Korman describes emotion good, I have two ways one is that when they are at planet Pan Shakespeare betrays them and sends police after them then he grits his teeth and says I'll get you for this another one is when he is in jail he was so scared and worried like when somebody is at the principles office the reason he was like this is because the Earth was going to be towed away by a huge U.F.O past Pluto. One way I am like Devin is I love Doritos and Dr. Pepper. My favorite part is when they figure out why manhole covers are round they are because a round manhole cover can never fall into the hole no matter which way you turn it, it will always fits perfectly. I give this book 3 stars because it isn't as funny as the first one but still its great!
