Crash into Us Shana Vanterpool

They met when they were kids.
They were friends, lovers, and then husband and wife.
They were supposed to be together forever.
He was her Superman.
She was his happiness.

And then he went pro.
And she doubted something that was supposed to be forever.
Mistakes were made in exchange for dreams, and hearts were shattered.
Their forever crumbled right before their eyes.

He went on to play for the Washington Warriors. He ate, breathed, and slept professional hockey. All he had left after her was the ice. He was in magazines, he won a Stanley Cup, and he had a crowd of people screaming his name. He had everything. Didn't he?

It's hard to move on from an addiction, and she was addicted. Drunk on love too early on, she never truly moved on from her first love. She faded in and out of life, trying to ignore her need. But bad habits have a way of coming back when you least expect them too.

For years they went separate ways, until her Superman falls from the sky.

He was on a helicopter after a big win when the engine cut out. He knows he's not making it out alive. Even with the screams of his teammates shouting in the background as they crash toward earth, all he can think of is her. He'll never get to see her again...

Love is unforgiving dragging her back to heartache. She only wants to help him get better from the accident and move on with her life. She never planned on falling back in love with him. She never planned on falling so hard a second time.

Lovesick and broken, they crash right back into each other.

"The moment I met Gavin Cobalt, my entire life came into focus. Even at ten-years-old I knew there was nothing I'd ever want more than I wanted him. The shattering of that want was the most painful thing I'd ever gone through, like watching a dream explode and being unable to catch the falling pieces."

This book had me from the get go. I literally couldn't put it down until I finished. I loved the two main characters the author created. I felt so connected and invested in them.

Such a great book that tells the tale of love lost and then found. The book was intense, seductive, and filled with an enormous amount of love that you felt through each and every page. It was very emotional and had me in tears in several places. Make sure to check this one out.

Joyce Mercês says

Shana is a genius. She has a way of pulverizing your heart (I'm not exaggerating) , then putting it back together. She creates the most perfect broken heroes EVER. And with Crash Into Us was no different: she kicked ass with the story!

Gavin Cobalt, broken Hockey Player. Literally broken. I ABSOLUTELY LOVED HIM! From page one! His pain was so raw, so big, so loud. As was his love for Jasmeen. Gah! What a couple!

I'm not the biggest fan of flashbacks, but I was eager to learn more how those two fell in love and I had a big smile on my face every time we went down memory lane.

For a book that had so many sad moments, I finished Crash Into Us with a sense of peace and pure bliss. The end was perfect and those final moments made me smile really big.

Every time I finish a book by Shana Vanterpool I want to give her a bear hug and thank her for writing such touching stories.

*** ARC GENEROUSLY PROVIDED BY THE AUTHOR ***

This was my first book by Shana Vanterpool..and WHERE THE HELL HAVE I BEEN..????

Crash into Us was an amazing book of love, friendship and forgiveness..

This was such a sweet book. Gavin Cobalt and Jasmeen Dejones have been friends since they were 10. Both of them formed an unbreakable friendship, turned into lovers and eventually got married at a young age of around 20. Until one day, they Broke at 22.

This is a sports romance + second-chance romance... And nothing went wrong..The language was great. The story flowed amazingly well, and I devoured this book..

Pros:

- Loved the Childhood scenes and the way they fell in Love..
- Loved the other Flashback scenes
- Liked the reasoning and logic behind their divorce
- Good writing
- Plot flowed very well
- Great Romantic scenes

Without a doubt there is a lot of wisdom in the words “you don’t know what you got until it’s gone” ... and I think this is what it comes down to if I had to describe Crash into Us by Shana Vanterpool.

While I have to honestly admit that I am not 100percent into the writing style of the author as I did not like/ agree with the ease with which two people that were obviously destined to be together threw away everything over something that in any other relationship should have been a big fight but not a divorce..- I still cannot help for liking the picture that was drawn around the two leads.

The essence of it being that two people that are so obviously soulmates cannot be kept apart forever except maybe not even by death. They might call it addiction I call it karma – and nobody messes with karma.

Brace yourself to find out if a broken Superman gets his second chance with the one woman that is able to silence the noises.....

Arc provided by author for honest review. Shana doll I think this is the first book I have ever read of yours that made me cry! It was emotionally deep and ate it up. It's funny of life works out sometimes. It was clear to see Gavin and Jasmeen had an unbreakable connection. But then again the only ones who can truly break it was them. I felt for Gavin with his nightmares, but I also felt for jas. Because she had to put on brave face and pull through for Gavin. This book was different from your other ones. And I loved it!!

Ah... I had such high hopes. mid-way in chapter one, I was ecstatic... I felt it in my bones..that this one was going to be good. First sign? The colour purple...why? Cause I love that colour.. second? the flower... purple asher. Then it got me thinking.. first purple succulents (from the book bad habit...which I loved!) and now purple asher.. got to be a sign for good things to come right? NOT. So much for me jumping to conclusion that this book was going to be one of those haunting nostalgia kind of book.

one of my favourite bookstagram friend recommended this book..she raved about it actually so obviously I got super excited about reading it too.. sadly this wasn't it for me. I found Jass to be annoying as hell... come out of your own self pity, woman! And geez listen to the dude and if you still want to... you can crawl back and drown yourself into your wine-fest *eye roll*

Gavin.. oh Gavin! You disappointed me the most.. I don't even know where to begin so I won't start. But I have to admit, he had his moments which literally made say "Well Hello Mr. " hahaha.

Crash into Us wasn't the best book out there.. it was one of those 'read it once and forget about it' type of book BUT like always, I guess I'm on the wrong side of it since almost everyone has loved it so far... but hey..to each their own...Maybe you'll love it. Happy Reading!

OMG! I ate this story up. I already knew from the blurb that Crash Into Us would be right up my alley and it was. Shana Vanterpool delivers a powerful, emotional and romantic story about love and getting a second chance.

Jasmeen and Gavin have known each other since they were ten and divorces at twenty two. Those twelve years are filled with a lot of firsts for both of them but most of all a love that's indestructible. A love that's all consuming.

Now at twenty six they've been without contact for four years since their painful breakup and divorce. A helicopter crash changes all that when Gavin is the only survivor and only want Jasmeen by his side for his recovery.

Their road back to one another was intense and filled with so many emotions. Just that scene in the hospital when Jasmeen and Gavin see each other for the first time in four years. My heart ached and broke. My eyes teared up. So powerful.

I loved the flashbacks to their youth cause that really showed why they're so addicted to one another. Why they're so tethered. Also my connection to them only intensified. Their chemistry is off the charts hot. Crazy as hell hot!

Their love is incredible. Their friendship is beautiful. Gavin was going through so much pain and suffering from nightmares but throughout it all Jasmeen was a rock. His rock. It was so difficult to read at times because the author captured it to perfection. Gavin's guilt of being the only survivor and him choosing between Jasmeen or hockey.

Crash Into Us is about second chances. Jasmeen and Gavin are without a doubt soulmates. With that comes hurt, disappointment but most importantly love. Their love can't be described. It has to be experienced.

This is only my second book that I've read from Shana Vanterpool. The first being Mad Love which brought my attention to the author. Now I can honestly say that I'm going full stalker mode. Her writing is flawless and her storytelling resonates with me. Her prose evoke so much emotion within me. Vanterpool has cemented herself as an author I need in my life.

I'm so happy Crash Into Us crashed into my life. Definitely going on my favorite list this year.

4 ★'s

This story has a really horrific start...Gavin and a few of his teammates are in a helicopter crash where everyone dies except for Gavin. He's pretty messed up though and the only person he wants is his ex-wife, Jasmeen, who he hasn't seen in four years.

Gavin and Jasmeen met when they were ten years old and become inseparable. As they get older, they become boyfriend/girlfriend and then get married. Unfortunately, they get divorced when they are twenty-two.

Jasmeen has a hard time escaping Gavin because he's a popular hockey star and his face is literally everywhere. But her life needs to go on and she does her best. And just when she thinks she has her life in control, she gets the phone call about Gavin. Of course, she goes but she's not prepared for what he evokes in her.

And what he asks of her...he wants her to help take care of him until he can get back on his feet. It will be a while because he has severe injuries and terrible nightmares. She does her best and luckily, she's able to help him.

They both can't stay away from each other. I was a little surprised they went four years apart with the intensity they share. Also, without their safety net of having distance between them, they soon take things to the next level.

I rather enjoyed watching them start over and trying to work things out. Some of the things were really sweet but the scenes with her parents were really hard.

I liked how things worked out and the epilogue was interesting. It fast forwarded about ten years so we get to see how life has worked out for them a bit. The scene with their youngest child and his new "friend" was really sweet. Maybe we will get their story one day?

5 “Count Down” Stars

Raw and honest. Heartbreaking and beautiful. This story pulled me in so much so that once I started reading, I didn't stop until the final word.

I think that Ms. Vanterpool writes some of the angriest NA romance out there and I can never get enough of them. Her characters, albeit flawed, have a realness to them that make them relatable and Jasmeen and Gavin are a perfect example. Their second chance romance was heartpounding and uputdownable.

Gavin and Jasmeen have known each other since they were 10 years old needing a friend. As time moved on so did their relationship. From best friends to everything, they knew they were meant to be together. But when Gavin's makes a professional hockey team, their lives start dividing until Jasmeen cannot take it anymore and the choices Gavin makes breaks them. Four years later Jasmeen is thrust back into Gavin's life after no contact when he is the lone survivor of a horrible accident. Determined to keep her heart in check but knowing Gavin has no else, she goes to help him heal. As they get to know each other again their addiction to each other that started all those years ago comes back to the surface and changes everything all over again.

Crash Into Us is the second book I've read from author Shane Vanterpool. One thing I learned from this author... be prepared to cry unsuspecting tears! Oh my Lord....Crash Into Us was an emotional roller coaster, one that I can't wait to ride again!

Jasmeen and Gavin's relationship started young. They first met when they were children and Jasmeen offered him her sweater. Their friendship grew on from there and evolved into something more the older they got. I loved their relationship, I'm a sucker for puppy love and best friends to lover romances!

Along the way wires were crossed and hearts were broken. Now for years later Jasmeen and Gavin are thrown back together after a tragedy wrecks havoc on one of them.

My heart literally ached for these two people. All they wanted was the love that they were denied as children.

I really did love this novel, my only issue was a few scenes were extremely fast paced. Other than that though I really enjoyed this heartfelt emotional second chance romance!

Bev says

I love a second chance story, and if they were married then divorced and get back together again .... pure catnip. This one was good, but Jasmeen's constant pity party got a bit old at times whereas Gavin, the one who was entitled to a pity party ,was the one fighting for them. He was awesome, loved him!

I liked that neither of them were celibate when they were divorced. Thank god!! I am so freaking sick of these angelic creatures that keep themselves celibate for years and years. Totally ridiculous! Glad the author kept this one real.

I felt the ending was a bit rushed with everything thrown together too quickly and neatly, so less of the pity party and more about that and also why her parents were such whack jobs would've been great.
