Sneak peek at the next book from the author:

"Kiss me," Victor whispers against my lips. "No." "Kiss me, dammit." I want to smile because there is nothing sexier than Victor when he's mad. "I said no." "Ashley...you better freaking kiss me," he murmurs, his honey eyes growing more intense with each refusal. "N.O." I spell out, knowing it'll drive him even crazier. We play this game, you see. We have since we were teenagers. Victor's the predator and I'm the prey. "I'm going to take what I want. You know I am." His voice gets sexier with each word that passes his lips. Ever since I left him ten months ago, I stopped being the good little prey. Yeah, I started fighting back. "Take it. I'll never give you what you want. I'm not your sweet little Ash anymore." He chuckles darkly, wrapping his arms around my waist. "You'll give me what I want. You always give me what I want." He nuzzles my nose and I can feel the sparks flying between us. "Now. Freaking. Kiss. Me."
