Here's a sample of what you'll see in this book:

12 Rules for Life: Rule 2- Treat Yourself Like Someone You Are Responsible for Helping Humans are usually more concerned about the health of their loved ones than themselves. They would readily assist a loved one but will not give themselves the same treatment. It poses an issue. Further, it is just recent that human being started giving more importance to scientific information than history. Prior to that, historical texts made humans feel for centuries. Humans and the things around them tend to be subjective. Human consciousness, a sense of chaos and order govern the universe at the same time. Order is linked with things happening in an identical manner, and chaos is anything that disrupts order and harmony. Nevertheless, chaos spawns a different kind of order even though it does not appear to do that on the surface.

The author's writing ( sentence structure in multiple places) is clumsy and points are not clear. I was thinking even though I knew this summary would be very succinct, it would be more coherent.
