Loved the story of Evan and Claire and another visit to Goose Harbor! I enjoyed how they competed and worked together to make the town they both love better. Also loved the storyline with Claire's newly adopted son and his interactions with both Claire and Evan. Really hope there will be more Goose Harbor stories. There were secrets that were hinted at but not revealed in this story that I hope will not be hidden forever.

Claire Atwood and Evan Daniels both run for mayor of Goose Harbor. But can they put aside their painful past history long enough to show the good citizen's they're the right one for the job?

Past love stories are some of my favorite. There's always a reason why a relationship didn't make it, and watching these two try to barge by it while being civil publicly was almost amusing. Except there was real hurt there for them both and they must learn to forgive the past. Add on top of that for Claire, she's having a difficult time trying to connect with her newly adopted son from overseas. Lots of layers to this story! I always enjoy the journey a couple takes in a book to get to their happily-ever-after. There were times I wanted to yell at Claire to stop being so stubborn when it came to Evan and for him to lighten up a bit on her! Some serious romantic angst to keep you on your toes. I love how this author handles every situation with grace and how faith plays a big part in the characters lives. Lastly, it was wonderful to visit Goose Harbor again, it's a small town to fall in love with!

A couple of favorite lines:

“A person can be a Christian and still struggle with feeling less-than, worthless, and undeserving. God doesn't want you to feel that way. The cross was the moment when God whispered, ‘I love you and you are worth this much to Me.’ We risk cheapening God's sacrifice when we deem ourselves undeserving.”

(from the Dear Reader in the back) Evan was the one who told Alex, “Do you know that once you tell God that you've chosen to be on His team, God will never let you go?” God will never let you go. No matter what. Hear that. Take it in. Believe it.
